

THE DIRECTOR OF
CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE

National Intelligence Council

7 June 1982

NOTE FOR: June Walker, Executive Director
The President's Commission on
Executive Exchange

FROM : Henry S. Rowen, Chairman
National Intelligence Council

In the field of international economics, we have a need for people with knowledge of international trade and finance. An appropriate background might be from a multinational corporation, international banking, or activities involving foreign trade or finance.

The international economic activities here are directed by the National Intelligence Officer for International Economics who reports to Director Casey. A person with enough experience and seniority could be considered for that job. There is also a position for an assistant to that NIO for someone who is less experienced.
